A significant feature of the handbook is the consideration of new topics including legal aspects of corporate social responsibilities, human rights, corporate bribery and corporate manslaughter and topics that have a direct bearing on the legal and practical aspects of company law. The handbook also highlights significant cases and principal judgments that impact on UK company law.

Not all dividends are paid in cash. Such dividends will usually be declared in a given amount, to be satisfied by the transfer of assets. The dividend will be equal to that given amount. Commonly the given amount will be the book value, the value of the assets in the company's balance sheet. Exceptionally, a company may satisfy a dividend by the transfer of assets without specifying any amount. In such cases the amount of the dividend is taken as the book value of the assets and similar treatment applies. We'll send you a link to a feedback form. It will take only 2 minutes to fill in. If he writes that the opinions of most of you and your wise and elder ones is in agreement with what your messengers inform about and I read in your letters, I will soon come to you by the will of God; for I swear by my soul that Imam a is not anyone but one who rules according to the Book of God, rises to justice, observes the religion of truth and commits himself to what God has said and ordered. Planning to make known the way of heavenly salvation, He went further and from the start manifested Himself to our first parents. Then after their fall His promise of redemption aroused in them the hope of being saved and from that time on He ceaselessly kept the human race in His care, to give eternal life to those who perseveringly do good in search of salvation. Bill is no stranger to the Law Reporting Bureau—having started his career there in 1981—and I know he will continue the great tradition of providing impeccable service for the entire Unified Court System. These changes demonstrate our increasing reliance on technology and the growing acceptance of the use of Internet material. Among other things, we now know how to cite materials such as ebooks. I anticipate that this aspect of the Style Manual will only continue to develop. In addition, as a substantive matter, I would like to point out that the new Manual addresses our relatively recent change over from the Code of Professional Responsibility to the new Rules of Professional Conduct as the rules that govern attorney conduct. On behalf of myself, the Court of Appeals and the rest of the Court System, I express the utmost respect and gratitude for their steadfast commitment to precision and their unmatched skill and dedication.

It also prescribes the style applied by the Law Reporting Bureau in editing the opinions for publication in the Reports. Although not binding on them, many lawyers find the Manual useful in preparing papers for submission to New York courts. The Style Manual provides a guide for opinion writers and editors in five primary areas: citation, abbreviation, capitalization, quotation, and word style and usage. Additionally, it specifies for editors the format and typographical standards for the Reports. General authorities should be consulted on matters not covered by this Manual. These authorities include: Users input inspired several rule clarifications and additions. Sample citations have been updated and expanded and residual style inconsistencies have been resolved. Other revisions reflect a continuing commitment to conform to modern style practices and reduce unnecessary variations from standard sources. The most noteworthy of the changes found in this Manual are: A clarification encourages authors to omit irrelevant information and additional examples of information that should be redacted have been included. Guidance is now included for formatting data tables incorporated in decisions 13.3 and using supra and infra to crossreference footnotes and sections of an opinion 12.6. The use of small capitals in the text of opinions and footnotes has been eliminated 13.5. The model citational footnote opinion has been updated Appendix 7. The Law Reporting Bureau welcomes suggestions for improvement of the Style Manual. Use of the Internet version is strongly recommended not only for updates, but also to gain the advantages of word searching, hypertext linking and coordinating use of the Manual with the Official Case Name and Citation Locator. Place it outside the sentence as in second example above if it relates to more than one preceding sentence. Some examples are See Appendix 7 for a model opinion formatted in the citational footnote style.

Apply the following rules based upon the location where citational content would be placed in the traditional format. The footnote number should be placed at the point in the text where the citation would appear if the citation were placed in the text. Place the citation in the footnote and eliminate the parentheses enclosing the citation. A full citation may be repeated if a short form or id. A shortform reference should provide sufficient information to avoid confusion with distinct previous citations. Do not place a comma between the signal and citation. Consult standard citation authorities for information regarding the use of signals, their order when using two or more and the order of authorities after each signal. A citation to an electronic source requires information identifying the particular material referenced, and is likely also to require information about the location where the source of that material may be accessed e.g. a website or an online service. If the format of an electronic source prevents precise citation to particular material referenced, add the necessary navigation instructions to the citation. Pinpoint citation is not possible if the electronic source is in a format e.g. HTML that does not contain fixed reference points, but may be included if the source is in a format e.g. PDF that contains fixed pagination, paragraph numbering or location numbers. The rules for citing specific types of electronic sources appear in the sections listed below. Case names found in the Table of Cases in the printed Official Reports should not be used when they differ from the electronic version. To cite a companion case whose title is different than the official case name, formulate a case name as described in section 2.1 a 2. Retain the abbreviations provided.

If the case does not appear in the Supreme Courts listing, formulate a case name using the citation naming conventions found in standard citation manuals and apply the abbreviations listed in Appendix 1. In either event, use the abbreviations listed in Appendix 1. Do not include optional information in references to previously cited authority. See section 1.3. Each opinion is assigned a Miscellaneous 3d citation as well as a unique Slip Opinion citation that is paginated to permit pinpoint page references. They are cited as follows Provide the case name, citation, court, decision date and docket or index number. If the source is Westlaw or Lexis, and access to both is available, cite both services Provide the uniform resource locator URL precisely as it appears in the Internet browser; the case name or document title; the precise identifier, such as case citation or number; and the date of the decision, adding if applicable the date that the decision was updated or corrected. Add pinpoint citations, if any, after the precise identifier. The name of the author may be added if desired For example Either the full name or the abbreviated name may be used in running text. See section 1.3. The form is They are cited as follows Citation may be made to the appropriate session and chapter as well as to the acts popular name or short title, if any. In addition, if the enactment is contained in McKinneys Unconsolidated Laws of New York or New York Consolidated Laws Service Unconsolidated Laws, a citation to these compilations may be included. Federal Public Laws or United States Statutes at Large may be cited to refer to an enactment not contained in the United States Code or to indicate the addition, amendment, renumbering or repeal of a law contained in the United States Code. In addition, the relevant jurisdictions designation of statutory divisions should be used.

For example, some states refer to the first division of a section as a subsection or the first division of an article as a paragraph. Furthermore, use any abbreviations provided in an outofstate compilations prescribed form of statutory citation. Citation to either the annotated or unannotated compilation is acceptable. Matters occurring before April 1, 2009 are governed by the Code of Professional Responsibility and should cite that code and include references to both the Disciplinary Rule and its companion NYCRR provision. Interior brackets are changed to parentheses as follows Some suggested forms are as follows Treaties signed since 1949 are contained in and may be cited to United States Treaties and Other International Agreements UST the official source. Those treaties signed since 1945 are also published in and may be cited to the Treaties and Other International Acts Series TIAS the unofficial source. Where the source contains pagination, a page reference may be included if greater precision is desired. Titles of articles and chapters within those sources are set in italics. To cite a website, provide the name of the website, the uniform resource locator URL precisely as it appears in the Internet browser and the date the website was accessed. To cite specific content, provide the name of the author, if any; a description of the content, such as a heading or document title; the publication date; the precise URL; and, in order of preference, the date that the content was last updated or accessed. Add a page reference or other pinpoint citation if desired after the description. If the particular document or page referenced cannot be directly accessed using the URL, add the necessary navigation instructions to the citation. Otherwise, cite as follows Include the ebook edition and the type of ereader used. To provide a pinpoint citation, use a fixed reference point such as a location number.

In claims against the State, the prosecuting party is referred to as Claimant and the State as Defendant. Crossappealing parties are designated AppellantRespondent and RespondentAppellant, the first party to appeal being AppellantRespondent. In impleader situations, ThirdParty PlaintiffAppellant, ThirdParty DefendantRespondent and the like should be used. However, in unemployment insurance and workers compensation proceedings that are appealed directly to the Appellate Division from the Unemployment Insurance Appeal Board or Workers Compensation Board, the parties are referred to by their status on appeal, i.e. Appellant and Respondent. In an appellate action or proceeding title, omit captions of adjunct actions or proceedings e.g. thirdparty or consolidated actions or proceedings that are not part of the appeal. Use a suitable notation, for example And Two Other Proceedings. or And a ThirdParty Action.. Where the middle name or names of an attorney are given, use them. Include the city, village or town of the firm, legal organization or attorneys appearing for each party, when available. The following examples are illustrative Shortform references also are capitalized For example For example The Justice reasoned. For example Roman numerals may be used alone or with text as a heading to delineate paragraphs or sections of an opinion. If the list is in columnar format, omit the parentheses and add a period after each number. For example In the event of conflicting styles, follow the personal name style used in papers submitted by or on behalf of that individual. All quotations, including blocked quotations, must be enclosed within quotation marks. For counting purposes, words include articles, symbols and numbers. Quotations in Appellate Division memorandum decisions are not blocked. Multiple paragraph quotations in Appellate Division memorandum decisions should be set out as tabbed paragraphs.

Other punctuation, such as question marks and exclamation marks, is placed within the ending quotation mark only if part of the quoted material. Place the ellipsis before the punctuation if the omitted material precedes the punctuation word..., next word. Place the ellipsis after the punctuation if the omitted material follows the punctuation word,... next word. If bracketed language replaces language omitted, do not indicate the omission with an ellipsis. If the end of a word is omitted or altered and the immediately succeeding language is omitted, use brackets and an ellipsis to indicate those changes. However, when the source document in which a quotation is found uses a different style of emphasis e.g. underscoring, boldface, retain that style. When emphasis in the source document is retained in a quotation and the author wishes to add further emphasis, use italics and add a parenthetical, such as additional emphasis added. When emphasis in a source document is omitted from a quotation, add a parenthetical emphasis omitted. Legalisms are also discouraged. For example, consider these substitutes See section 13.7. For example This rule may require redaction of the names of witnesses or other nonparties who are referenced in text. For example, George Jones may be replaced by George J., or G.J., or George RR or Anonymous. Numerical identifiers such as Social Security numbers; bank, credit and debit card numbers, insurance policy numbers and other financial account numbers; and drivers license numbers should not appear in any published opinion. Include the specific page or footnote number that is being crossreferenced. Both flush left and centered headings may be used in a single decision. For example A public domain citation is assigned by the court or the Reporter of Decisions and is not associated with a particular vendor or a particular medium of publication.

The citation formats adopted by these jurisdictions are listed below and the style rule governing these citations is found in section 2.3 c 4. Either full or abbreviated form may be used in running text. Variations may be required in certain titles.
